

Evaluation multiple linear regression for value of residential properties

Wilson Sanches Mateus¹, Ana Lúcia Souza Silva Mateus²

Abstract: This article aims to find a linear regression model capable of identifying variables that influence the value of residential properties. The correlation coefficient obtained indicated a moderate correlation between the variables. This analysis can help the future owner to evaluate if the price is a fair sale price.

Keywords: Statistical inference; regression; housing market.

¹ Universidade Federal de Lavras - UFLA. email: sancheswm78@gmail.com.

² Universidade Federal de Santa Maria - UFSM. email: analucia.stat@gmail.com.